Godparents for the children

At a service of thanksgiving, the 'Godparents' are chosen as people who can be relied upon to care of the child and support the family. It is always good if they follow the Christian faith, but unlike christenings (baptism), they do not make a promise in church to live a Christian life and be an example of this to the child.

This means that parents can chose anyone to be act as a Godparent in a service of thanksgiving in church.

The following people have been asked to be godparents at the thanksgiving: (names)
